2006 Uniform Price Adjustment – Regular Dry Paint and Low Temperature Waterborne Paint

This construction advisory is to notify field staff of a uniform price adjustment when regular dry paint or low temperature waterborne paint are substituted for waterborne paint due to seasonal limitations.

Projects completed at the end of the construction season that call for the pay item, "Pavement Marking, Waterborne Paint . . ." often must substitute regular dry paint or low temperature waterborne due to seasonal limitations. (Waterborne paint may be used outside these dates and temperatures only as approved by the engineer.)

Sherwin-Williams and Ennis Paint Company have both developed a low temperature waterborne paint. Their products are not on the Qualified Products List yet; however, they can be substituted for regular dry paint beginning October 1, 2006.

Regular dry can be placed when the surface temperature is 25 degrees or higher. Low temperature waterborne can be placed when the surface temperature is 35 degrees or higher.

Temperature limitations are in Section 811.03.D.1 of the 2003 Standard Specifications for Construction.

The negotiated price adjustment for "Pavement Marking, Waterborne . . ." is as follows:

$0.006/ft	4 inch line
$0.009/ft	6 inch line
$0.018/ft	12 inch line

This adjustment applies only to projects that have completion dates after October 1, or have approved extensions of time without liquidated damages beyond October 1.

Contractors who are in liquidated damages after October 1 are not eligible for this price adjustment.

The Traffic and Safety Division's Signs and Delineation Unit anticipates issuing this price adjustment notice at the end of each construction season.
